

EASTERN PARTNERSHIP & RUSSIA

The history of the International Society for Human Rights is closely tied to that of the Soviet Union. After its fall in 1991, ISHR sections formed in many countries of the former USSR, including all six countries of the Eastern Partnership (Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Moldova, and Ukraine) as well as in Russia. Currently, exciting joint projects regarding freedom of information and media and strengthening civil society actors are being carried out in the region by the sections, initiated by the ISHR in Germany, with support from the German Federal Foreign Office.

Minsk Roundtable-Overcoming Disinformation in the Media

Turkey: Active Christians are undesirable in Turkey

The latest invasion of Syria by Turkey and Islamist militias associated with it has been associated with outrageous human rights violations; in particular the expulsion of Kurds, Christians and Yazidis.

Working to Strengthen the Rule of Law in the Ukraine

The Ukrainian Section of the ISHR is working in the field of observance of the right to a fair trial in Ukraine. We started this work in 2017, and since then we have been constantly improving on the quality and quantity of the monitoring.

INTIMIDATION POLITICS – POLITIKA SAPUGIVANIYA

This year exactly marks 30 years since I've been in Soviet Moscow. Although I have visited there dozens of times since then, the comparison always remains in my head. – By Dr. rer. pol. C. Krusch
